Book Spotlight

Appleblossom the Possum by Holly Goldberg Sloan
Finished this book last night and loved it. It is the story of a young possum named Appleblossom who inadvertently finds herself trapped in a house of monsters (people!). Using her wits and instinctive acting abilities she not only survives but learns some valuable lessons about family, kindness, and true bravery. Lovely illustrations add a nice touch to this great read aloud.
Happy Reading!

Kristine Jelstrom-Hamill

From the Art room:

For all those that are new to MES, and a reminder to others, Art is messy! I recommend students wear clothes that they do not mind if they get spotted or stained. If you choose to send a smock in for your child please keep it only 1 or 2 sizes bigger than their everyday clothing. Overly large smocks tend to make more mess than it protects from.

And finally, we will be continuing to participate in Artsonia the web based art museum of students work. Kindergarten parents and new students should be getting emails soon, from them, explaining more about it and a link to set up their child's account. As always, if anyone would like to help keeping work uploaded, please let me know when and I will show you how and have work ready for you.

Many Thanks
